Weapon Used Was Long Knife, Sec. tion of Which Was Broken Off In Young Woman's Body.

Mamie Wilson, an extremely pretty young woman, died in St. Vincent's Hospital to-day of frightful stab wounds. She identified as the man who stabbed her James Boyne, steward of the Avon Beach Club, at Bath Beach.
The crime was committed in a room at the Hotel St. Lawrence, No. 30 East
Thirteenth street, and bears many marks of resemblance to the "Jack the Ripper" mysteries of London.

The knife with which the woman was stabbed was found in the room. It is the sort of knife that a cook or chef would find handy in his work. The blade is stamped "France," and there are four notches cut on the handle.

Boyne, who is married and whose wife gave birth to a child last Saturday, sturdily denies that he committed the crime. He admits that he went to the Hotel St. Lawrence with a woman last night, but says that it was not the Wilson woman, and that the stabbing oc-The identification by the victim, how-ever, is declared to have been positive.

Blood Stains on Shirt Sleeve.

After Boyne was identified he was taken to the Mercer street police station and searched. The right sleeve of his shirt was soaked with blood to the elbow and there were sprinklings of blood on left sleeve. He said that this was blood he wiped from his face after the police had beaten him in making the agreet but when he was averaged. ments from the time he left Bath Beach prisoner is a Spaniard, twenty-me years old and was born in Morocco. His head is of a percular shape and furnished an excellent mark or identification. "He stabbed me," gasped the dying woman, pointing to Boyne, who met her dividently new to the surroundings in which Boyne found her.

chambermaid. According to the Newell woman-and the register bears her out—there were but two other guests in the hotel last night. The lights in the office had been extinguished and the door had been locked at midnight when piercing screams in room No. 7 awoke not only everybody in the house but everybody in the neighborhood.

The chambermald ran in the direction of the room. As she was approachtion of the room. As she was approaching the door Boyne rushed out, with his overcoat buttoned closely about him and his hat in his hand. He dashed down the stairs, but finding the door locked was compelled to seek another way out. Bertha Newell grabbed him and held on until Detectives Lloyd and Kennedy, of the Mercer street station, who had been standing at Fifth avenue and Thirteenth street, reached the hotel to investigate the reason for the screaming. The Smith girl admitted them and they arrested Boyne after a fight.

Boyne was taken to the hospital from

In addition to his duties as steward of the Avon Beach Club Boyne was a waiter every day for three hours at the Bowling Green Lunch Club, No. 18 Beaver street. The greatest surprise was expressed to-day by members and employees of the club over his arrest for murder. All asserted that he was sober and industrious and that he never beirayed any signs of degeneracy.

The Kangra Valley is believed to have been devastated, and it is reported that the town of Kangra was reduced to ruins, with great loss of life. No confirmation of the report is obtainable, as the telegraph station at Kangra is wrecked.

Kangra, known in ancient times as Nagraylet is a town in the Punjab.

Nagarkot, is a town in the Punjab, ninety miles east-northeast of Amritsar. Formerly Kangra was the capital of a Katoch state of considerable size. It is situated on both sides of a hill overlooking the Banganga torrent. The population of Kangra numbers about 5,500. mostly Hindoos.

A private telegram received here says the whole town of Palampur has been levelled to the ground and that not a single building is left standing. This announcement has not been confirmed up to the present.

Palampur is a town of the Punjasb and has about 5,000 inhabitants. It is situated in the Kangra district and is the centre of the tea plantations of the Palam Valley.

In addition to the Europeans already killed at Dharmsala seven children of Europeans are said to have met their death. overlooking the Banganga torrent. The
